

Shiv Nadar awarded 2013 BNP Paribas Grand Prize for Individual Philanthropy

Recognized for his philanthropic endeavors in education in India through the Shiv Nadar Foundation

Paris/New Delhi, October 11, 2013: BNP Paribas Wealth Management, a leading global private bank, awarded the 2013 BNP Paribas Grand Prize for Individual Philanthropy to Shiv Nadar, Founder & Chairman, HCL and Shiv Nadar Foundation. The award was given to him at an event hosted on October 10th, 2013 at the Salons de l'Orangerie, the BNP Paribas headquarters in Paris, for his unparalleled efforts in philanthropy.

Francois Debiesse, Chairman of The Fondation de l'Orangerie for Individual Philanthropy, a grant-making foundation set up by BNP Paribas Wealth Management, said, "The inclusive leadership development model of the Shiv Nadar Foundation is unique and stands out not only in terms of the sheer impact it will have on its beneficiaries but also on the significance of this to create an inclusive future for India. We believe that is a very powerful model for every developing nation that would play a key role in contributing to nation building. I congratulate Mr Nadar and the Foundation for this truly exemplary work."

Accepting the award, Shiv Nadar said, "This is a great honor and I thank BNP Paribas for this recognition. Education is the single largest tool for individual empowerment and sustainable large-scale social and economic transformation. The Shiv Nadar Foundation would continue to harness the power of inclusive education to bridge urban-rural divide and drive exponential social transformation in India by creating leaders from every socio-economic segment."

Shiv Nadar has pledged over 20 percent of his total wealth towards philanthropy. Since inception, the Shiv Nadar Foundation has become a significant driver of social change and transformational education through its landmark institutions spanning the entire education spectrum from universities and colleges to K-12 schools and that include the SSN Institutions, one of India's top ranked engineering college; the Shiv Nadar University, a multidisciplinary university with strong research orientation and VidyaGyan, a radical experiment in leadership development through free residential education to meritorious rural underprivileged children.

BNP Paribas Wealth Management instituted the BNP Paribas Awards for Individual Philanthropy in 2008 with a view to disseminating information and raising general awareness of the growing global phenomenon of philanthropic giving.

The winners were chosen by an independent jury made up of leading figures from business and charitable organisations, along with experts from the arts, humanitarian and public sectors. The jury is chaired by Suzanne Berger, Professor of Political Science at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Boston. In studying the profiles of all the nominees, the jury made their decisions based on various criteria, such as the social impact of their philanthropic initiatives, the philanthropists' personal and financial investment, and the professionalism, viability and transparency of the projects.

The Independent Jury of the BNP Paribas Awards for Individual Philanthropy is composed of:

- Suzanne Berger, Professor of Political Science at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Boston, Chair of the Jury
- Yann Arthus-Bertrand, photographer and Chairman of the Good Planet Foundation
- Bernard Faivre d'Arcier, President of the Lyon Biennial Contemporary Arts festival and of the Metz en scène concert organisation
